

THE CLARION.

HOUSE, FARM AND GARDEN.

THE FARMER'S WIFE.

The farmer came in from the field one day,
His languid step and his weary way,
His blended brow and sinewy hand,
All showing the work for the good of the land;

For he sows,
And he mows,
All for the good of the land.

By the kitchen fire stood his patient wife,
With face all aglow and lively eye,
Preparing the meal for the husband's hand;

For she must boil,
And she must brew,
All for the sake of the home.

Sun shines bright when the farmer goes out,
Birds sing sweet songs, lambs frisk about,
The brook bubbles softly in the glen,
While he works bravely for the good of men,

For he sows,
And he mows,
All for the good of the land.

How briskly the wife steps about within—
The dishes to wash, and the milk to skim,
The fires to go out, and the flies buzz about—
For dear ones at home her heart is kept stout;

There are pies to make,
There is bread to bake,
And steps to take,
All for the sake of the home.

When the day is over and the evening has come,
The creatures are fed and the milking is done,
He takes his rest 'neath the old shade tree,
From the labor of the land his thoughts are free;

Though he sows,
And he mows,
He rests from the work of the land.

But the faithful wife, from sun to sun,
Takes the burden up that's never done;
There is no rest, there is no pay,
For the household gods she must work away;

For to mend the flock,
And to knit the sock,
And the cradle to rock,
All for the good of the home.

When Autumn is here, with chilling blast,
The farmer gathers his crop at last,
His barns are full, his fields are bare,
For the good of the land he never hath care;

While it blows,
And it snows,
Till the winter goes,
He rests from the work of the land.

But the willing wife, till life's closing day,
Is the children's, the husband's stay,
From day to day she has done her best,
Until death alone can give her rest;

For after the rest,
Comes the rest,
With the best,
In the farmer's heavenly home.

Housekeepers' Help.

To Polish Floors.—To polish stained floors rub them thoroughly once a week with beeswax and turpentine.

BUTTER SPONGE CAKE.—Fourteen eggs, the weight of the same in sugar, eight ounces of flour, six of butter and the juice of three lemons.

PALMETTO FLANNEL CAKE.—One pint buttermilk, two beaten eggs, flour enough to make a stiff batter—the flour to be mixed half wheat and half corn flour. Put a spoonful of seafoam into the flour and cook on a griddle.

ONE, TWO, THREE, FOUR CAKE.—One cup of butter, two cups of sugar, three cups of flour, four eggs. Beat the sugar and butter to a cream. Add the eggs, well beaten, and the flavoring; then one large teaspoonful of baking powder.

BREAKFAST WAFFLES.—After breakfast stir into the hominy that is left, one teaspoonful of butter and a little salt. Set it aside. The next morning thin it with milk and two eggs, beaten well. Stir in flour enough to make the right consistency, and bake in waffle irons.

PUDDINGS.—An excellent way of using stale biscuits or cakes is to pound them fine in a mortar; then mix with them two eggs with their weight in butter; beat all to a cream; pour into a mould and steam. This is excellent cold with fruit, such as stewed prunes or apples.

SOFT INDIAN MEAL PUDDING.—To one quart of boiling sweet milk add a sufficient quantity of corn meal to make a stiff batter; add salt and make sweet with molasses; butter a pan and pour the batter into it; then pour upon it one quart cold sweet milk, add a little butter, cut into small pieces, and bake slowly.

HEN'S NESTS.—Take five small eggs, break a hole in the bottom of each, blow out the egg, fill with blanc mange; when cold take off the shells; cut the rinds of six lemons into strips; boil in water till tender, then preserve with sugar; fill a deep dish full of calves-foot jelly; when set, put the strips of lemon peel on in form of nest, and lay the sham eggs in it.

COLD MEAT DISH.—Take any sort of meat (cold) and suet, mixed chop very fine; add salt, onions, minced ham or tongue, a slice of bread soaked in milk, two well beaten eggs, one ounce of butter, stew all together gently for fifteen minutes; turn it into a mould, and bake till brown. Turn out on a hot dish, and cover with the gravy strained off when moulded.

CURE FOR DYPHTHERIA.—Take a piece of red oak bark about the size of the hand, and a large grasp of sage leaves, boil in one pint of water down to a half pint; then add one teaspoonful of pulverized alum and one teaspoonful of pulverized borax, then add enough honey to make it very sweet; use as a gargle every half hour, swallowing a little at the same time; be sure it reaches the afflicted parts.

Young Farmers.

The hope of improvement in agricultural development in this country depends on the young farmers, who have taken hold of the business as a means of making a livelihood. With the intelligence and activity that are inherent qualities of the progeny of the successful planters of the olden times, these energetic young men are exhibiting remarkably fine traits and qualities that assure success. To those who propose engaging in the business, there is a world of wisdom in the following remarks of a contemporary, the writer of which has evidently been a close observer. He says: Young man, if you are going to be a farmer, be a good one. Be the chief worker yourself. It is the first that wins esteem and respect. Study, observe and listen, and gather information pertaining to your business from every source, and you can soon know as much as any one. Let no day pass without some increase of knowledge. Whatever you cultivate, do it well. Whatever stock you have, let it be good, and take good care of it, and improve it as fast as your means will admit. Whatever fruit you have let it be choice, and study how to improve it, how to market it so as to get the highest price. If you have a garden, let it be the first in the neighborhood. Be at the head of the class, not third or fourth, or at the foot.—Planters Journal.

Success With an Orchard.

"In three years," says a practical fruit grower, "I improved the production of my fruit trees from fifteen to two hundred bushels, by treating them in the following manner: I first reduced the top one-fourth; then in the fall I plowed the soil as well as I could, it being quite rocky, and turned a short furrow toward the trees. As I worked from them I let the plow fall a little lower, and when between the trees I allowed the plow to run deep, so that the water would settle away from them in the spring. I hauled a fair quantity of coarse manure, pulverized it well, and marked out hills, manuring each hill. I planted corn and beans and pumpkins. The following spring I repeated the same cultivation. My trees began to grow very fast, and that fall I harvested seventy bushels of very good apples. The following spring I manured for the third time, planted it to potatoes, which were very large but rotted badly. I made up the loss, however, by harvesting 200 bushels of large fruit. I changed the production of a yellow Bellflower tree from three-fourths of a bushel to seven bushels, and sold them for $1.25 per bushel, which I think a very good return for my labor. From my experience I am of the opinion that most trees have too much top for the amount of roots, and a deficiency of nourishment for producing a developed fruit. I like fall or winter pruning.

Oats.

We are an oat man. The oat make a cheap and healthful feed for man and beast. We contend it is more cheaply grown than corn. Put them on good corn land; sow early; put them in well; break with two horses; sow; harrow in; use a good harrow or harrow twice; pulverize the ground; do not neglect your oat crop. Next August and September sow the winter oat for pasture and for grain. Winter oats grow slower, tiller more, and grow taller on thin land, and yield more than the spring oat. See what the Atlanta Constitution says about oats in Georgia. It claims that oats saved the State. When the commission merchants were cautious in advancing supplies for a crop not yet planted, the farmers concluded they must help themselves, and they sowed oats, and when they had harvested they sowed more oats. Thus they had feed for their stock and oats to sell. So many oats were sown it was thought that they would sell for a song in the fall. But they didn't. Oats are now 75 cents per bushel in South Georgia, while corn is selling for 50 cents. Hurrah for oats.—West Tenn. Argus.

Brick Dust Deposit.

A very bad sign. A deposit of brick dust in one's bladder is a very bad sign indeed. Those who find themselves attacked by this symptom of kidney disease, should seek relief without delay. Such relief is guaranteed from kidney, bladder, liver, and urinary diseases by Hunt's Remedy. This wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine, cures all kidney diseases infallibly.

A very desperate habit, one that is rarely cured. Apoplexy is only cotism wrong side out. Nine times out of ten, the first thing a man's companion knows of his shortcomings is from his apoplexy.—Holmes.

The London Medical Record concludes from Prof. Koch's experiment that the only certain disinfectants are chlorine, bromine, and corrosive sublimate. Solutions of one part of the latter to 1,000 parts of water will kill spores in ten minutes, while a solution of 1 in 15,000 is strong enough to arrest the power of development in micro-organisms.

The reason why borrowed books are so seldom returned to their owners is, that it is much easier to retain the books than what is in them.—Montaigne.

One of the Brightest Charms.

Of a fair face is a fine set of teeth. The ladies being fully alive to this fact, patronize Sodontop, in preference to any other dentifrice, since they know by experience that it preserves like no other the pristine whiteness and cleanliness of the teeth, and makes a naturally sweet breath additionally fragrant. It is one of the privileges of the beauty to look lovely, and that proportion of it which uses Sodontop, has learned that the article contributes in no small degree to the end in view. All druggists sell it.

Command large fields, but cultivate small ones.—Virgil.

Daughter—"Yes, mother, and am now paying the penalty. Sarah Goss suffered in the same way; please let that which relieved her."
Mother—"Nonsense! I'll do no such thing, but will send for our Doctor."
Daughter—"Our Doctor keeps one in bed a long time and pours down a vast quantity of medicine, besides making daily changes."
Mother—"Stop, for heaven's sake stop and go to work at once!"
Daughter—"After two weeks have expired—laughter, our Doctor shall be discarded at once. Two weeks and no relief. I will procure that which you desired at first."
Daughter—"In a low tone—"I am glad, and think it the only thing that will restore me to health."
